Our decision to open local bureaus in Dallas, Orlando, and Washington, D.C. reaffirms our commitment to further grow our presence throughout the region and in locations where we have seen increased demand for our services from business owners, their advisors, other professionals, and academics. The choice of these three offices now enable us to reach a wider group of privately-held business owners, attorneys, accountants, and other professionals and to further create awareness of Highland Global's business valuation and financial analysis services throughout a growing yet underserved section of the United States. We look forward to continuing to further expand our presence not just in the United States but also internationally later this year and in 2011.
